

Skelton (Redcar & Cleveland)
‘Snapshot in Time’
Building Recording Project
23rd to 27th September 2019
Volunteer Application Form

As part of the Skelton Townscape Heritage Project, Tees Archaeology is leading a fourth year of Building Recording in Skelton with local people and volunteers.

This year the project will focus on completing the recording of the historic core, looking at the estate buildings around the castle and the eastern end of the High Street.

No previous experience is required, and training will be provided. The project will require a considerable amount of time spent out of doors recording buildings (from the exterior only). The project will be based at the Skelton Townscape Heritage Office on the High Street at Skelton.

Please indicate the dates you would be able to attend, it is recommended that people attend for at least a day:-

- All personal data is only available to Tees Archaeology staff and we will take every reasonable step to protect the information from access by any other person or organisation.
- Information will normally be held for a period of 12 months unless you make a prior request for its removal.
- If you wish your details to be included in the database, please sign above.
- Unfortunately only a limited number of places are available and as a consequence if there are more applications than places, volunteers will be chosen by lot.
- Because of the training required you will need to commit for at least one full day.
- Building Recording involves considerable periods outdoors and you should be prepared for this.
